Charles Benvenuti unanimously named to school board

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis City Council approved a recommendation for Charles Benvenuti to serve on the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board.

Benvenuti was recommended by Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz to replace J. Cyril Glover whose term will expire at the end of this month.

As chairman of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Education Committee, Benvenuti has been actively involved in the school system for the past two years.

"I am excited with the opportunity to be involved in what I see as the most important aspect of government in our community, the education of our children," Benvenuti said.

He said the two years of background gained while on the education committee has helped him understand much of what is currently going on in the school system and with the help of the other board members he will be able to learn the inner-workings of the board.

"I believe with the efforts of the entire board and superintendent, along with public support from teachers, parent groups such as Parent's For Quality Education and Parent-Teacher Organization, the business community and concerned citizens this school system can and will be the best one on the coast."

Benvenuti also reserves the classroom teacher as the foundation for quality education and as such the most important individual employee in the school.

Benvenuti said he did not think his past confrontations with the board would be a problem in the future.

"I am a team player and believe that I will be able to work with all other members of the board because from talking to them, I know quality education is also their goal," he added.

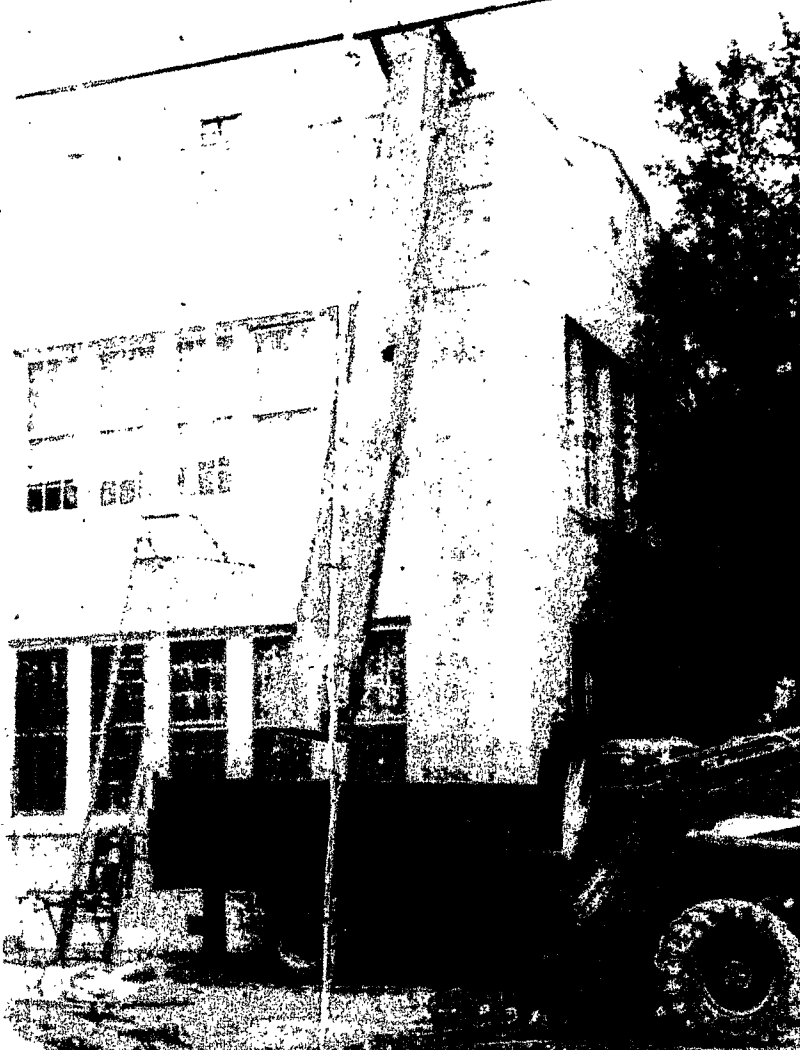

A 1970 graduate of Bay High School, Benvenuti received his bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Benvenuti and his wife, Elizabeth Hunter Benvenuti, have three children.

Councilman James Thrifflay said he is happy to have such a distinguished alumnus on the school board.

"Benvenuti has shown the value of the school system by becoming a certified public accountant and such a successful businessman," Thrifflay added.

Councilman Lisa Coward said she favored Benvenuti's appointment because of his financial background and genuine interest in the school system.

First crack confiscated in Hancock; Florida man arrested, jailed

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has confiscated the first crack found in Hancock County.

George Vernon Wilder, 27, of Leesburg, Fla., has been charged with possession of crack with intent to sell or deliver, resisting arrest and a misdemeanor possession of marijuana, Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said.

Bond was set Wednesday at $2,500 and Wilder was still in jail late Wednesday afternoon.

Peterson said the suspect was arrested at about 11 p.m. Tuesday after information was received from a confidential informant that Wilder was allegedly selling crack in the county.

Wilder was stopped by Deputy Albert Biehl, who made the arrest with assistance from Bay St. Louis and Waveland police officers.

The resisting arrest charge was added after Wilder had an altercation at the scene of the arrest with Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner.

"A substantial amount of crack was found on the suspect's person," the sheriff said.

He explained that crack is a form of cocaine that is cooked down into a hard, rocklike substance.

"To my knowledge, it is the first time in this county that we have come upon crack. It is a very addictive, very dangerous drug and it seems we have it here now," Peterson said.

"I understand that crack is the most addictive drug on the street now."

Peterson said authorities presently believe that the drug was manufactured in Florida rather than in Hancock County.

Ladner is in charge of the investigation, which is continuing.

The sheriff's department plans to try to obtain possession through the courts of items seized in the arrest, including $1,375 in cash, a 1983 Datsun GTX and a police monitor.

Bay council drops request for one-half cent sales tax to benefit school district

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Bay St. Louis City Council voted this week to rescind a resolution seeking authorization from the state legislature to collect one-half cent sales tax to support the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

In a joint meeting Monday with officials from Waveland and four Hancock County supervisors, councilmen discussed the proposed sales tax.

The Bay council called the meeting to see if the other county government entities would favor the one-half cent sales tax throughout the school district area.

Councilman James Thrifflay said although the bill had been submitted to beat the deadline, it was the consensus of the council to withdraw support if either the county or Waveland governments were opposed to the bill.

Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. said he was opposed to any kind of tax increase unless someone could change his mind.

"I think before we add sales tax and run our business to Slidell we need to get some kind of comparative analysis on school districts' costs from Piquette to Moss Point," Longo said.

Business is up now, because local prices have gotten more competitive, he added.

"I know we all want to be progressive but in face of the competition from Slidell and neighboring counties, we must keep prices low," Longo said.

Supervisor A. A. Keller said he was completely in favor of spending money in the county but if sales tax was increased, many county residents will go elsewhere to shop.

"If the adjoining counties have a lower sales tax, area businesses will be taking in less money than they are at this time," Keller said.

Mayor Victor Frankiewicz said it was good for the three government groups to meet together because the taxes passed to the citizens are a result of what we all do.

"It would be bad for the community if we keep making decisions individually without considering what the other units of government are doing at the same time," Frankiewicz.

The three government officials plan to continue these joint meetings and have scheduled another for March 9.

"I am really happy we are going to be meeting regularly as a group so that we can continue to find ways to cooperate and consolidate services," Frankiewicz added.

Also at the meeting, the group agreed to go on record to notify the state authorities of the inequities on the utility assessments.

"There is no reason for the utilities to be paying 1960 taxes while we are paying 1980 rates," Longo said.

The group also briefly discussed a metro-center-type government and consolidation of the school districts.

Bay-Waveland ranked seventh on coast in pupil spending

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District currently ranks seventh out of eight Gulf Coast School Districts in annual expenditures per pupil.

Superintendent of Education Roger Oge released statistics Tuesday indicating that the district ranks only above Long Beach in its average amount of money being spent on each student.

Oge said he had not been invited to attend a Monday afternoon public officials' meeting on reducing taxes called by Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr., and was not present to supply the information when the matter of school spending came up during discussion.

"My research was prompted by (Waveland) Mayor (John) Longo's implication that the school district spends too much money," the superintendent said.

After compiling the statistics on the coast districts' spending, Oge said he felt the information should be made public.

"I feel the district should publish these findings because the public has a right to know how its money is being spent on the education of children in comparison to other school districts," he stated.

The Bay-Waveland district is currently spending an average of $2,451.21 annually on each student, according to a 1987 edition of a report distributed to the state's superintendents.

Out of the coastal districts, Pass Christian leads with $3,540.50 per pupil per year.

Pascagoula is second with $3,376.29, Biloxi is third with $3,060.04 and Gulfport is fourth with $2,888.46.

Ocean Springs ranks fifth with $2,860.35 and Moss Point is sixth with $2,858.23.

Long Beach trails with $2,340.83 in annual expenditures measured on a per student basis.

The school districts used for the comparison are all municipal separate school districts, although a

School districts seeking handicapped children

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland, Hancock County and Pass Christian school districts are participating in the statewide "Child Find" program.

This is an ongoing effort to identify, locate and evaluate children through the age of 21 who are physically, mentally, communicatively or emotionally handicapped.

Early identification of children in need of special educational experiences is most important to each child.

Furthermore, this information gathered from contacts with parents and other agencies will be used to help determine present and future needs as progress is made toward the goal of providing a free appropriate public education to all handicapped children.

Information which could identify an individual child will be maintained by these agencies and will be provided to other agencies only in accordance with the Family Rights and Privacy Act and ESEA-9.

As a parent, you are guaranteed to the right to inspect any such information about your child and to challenge its accuracy.

Access to this information is forbidden to any unauthorized person without informed consent.

SHERLOCK HOLMES

"Mystery" on public television is celebrating the upcoming 100th anniversary of Sherlock Holmes. The third season of new productions starring Jeremy Brett as the super sleuth and Edward Hardwicke as his legendary companion Dr. Watson is currently playing at 8 p.m., Sundays, on Mississippi ETV.

On Feb. 22, Holmes encounters murders that follow the abduction of a duke's son in "The Abbey Grange." Conrad Phillips and Anne Louise Lambert play the boy's parents in the story, dramatized by Trevor Bowen and directed by Peter Hammond.

It was almost a century ago that a young Scotsman, dabbling as a fiction writer to augment his meager income as a physician, sold a short story, "A Study in Scarlet," to England's Beeton's Christmas Annual. Hero of the story was a super-intelligent but cold, emotionless detective named Sherlock Holmes.

Child Find

Child Find Coordinators Gloria Dean of Bay St. Louis, Dr. Kate Reynolds of Hancock County and Sherry Ponder of Pass Christian implement child identification, location and evaluation of children ages birth through 21 who are handicapped, regardless of the severity of their handicaps and are in need of special education and related services.

Child Find works with the Department of Public Welfare, Department of Health, Department of Mental Health, local education agencies, ministers, physicians and other individuals to identify and locate children out of school and in school who may be in need of special education services.

Once a referral is made, it is the responsibility of the Child Find coordinator to insure that the Referral-To-Placement procedures are followed. The coordinators work with local survey committees at each school to implement this procedure. The following activities briefly describe the procedure.

Prior to evaluation, a parent information booklet, procedural safeguards, privacy rights, confidentiality procedures, policies of the Bay St. Louis, Hancock County and Pass Christian school districts and the educational options and rights of students are explained to the parent.

After parental consent for testing is obtained, a nondiscriminatory evaluation is conducted. Students are evaluated in all areas related to the suspected disability by qualified personnel.

When a student is ruled eligible for a special education program, parents must sign consent for placement; and an individual education plan is developed for the student. Parents, teachers and students participate in this process. All students receiving special education services are reassessed at least once a year.

Programs that are available to these districts serve students who are educationally handicapped, multi-handicapped, physically handicapped, and learning disabled.

Speech and language therapy is also available in these school districts.

Cooperative efforts with other school districts provide services for deaf/hard-of-hearing, visually impaired, and emotionally handicapped students who need services not provided in the local districts.

It is the goal of the Bay St. Louis and Hancock County School Districts to provide free appropriate education to all handicapped children birth through age 21 by the year 2000.

Anyone who is aware of a child who demonstrates characteristics or behavior indicative of a handicap, please contact Gloria Dean, Bay St. Louis School District coordinator, 487-1021; Dr. Kate Reynolds, Hancock School District coordinator, 487-4466; or Sherry Ponder, Pass Christian School District coordinator, 452-7271.

Lower Bay crash injures driver

A worker for Star Imports Inc., Atlas Powder Company, a Port Bienville Industrial Park firm, has been injured in a one-vehicle accident on Lower Bay Road.

Peter Jensen, 45, a worker on a Star Import ship docked at Port Bienville, sustained dental and jaw injuries Sunday morning when the Star truck he was driving apparently ran off the road about a quarter-mile east of Gulfview Elementary School, according to Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

The pick-up truck traveled about 250 feet in a ditch before striking a culvert, Peterson said.

The driver was taken to Hancock General Hospital by Mobile Medic Ambulance Service and was later transferred to Gulf Coast Community Hospital.

Peterson said the exact cause of the accident is under investigation by Deputy Leo Ladner. The sheriff stated that charges are pending.

Republicans gathering info for developing new platform

Republicans assigned the task of developing a new platform for the state party heard testimony on "workfare" as an alternative to welfare, and recommendations on improving the corrections system during a public hearing in Jackson Monday.

The testimony followed an address by U.S. Secretary of Education William Bennett who discussed the importance of parental involvement in the education process.

"Workfare", a concept which is being successfully implemented in North Carolina, was explained by Phillip Kirk, North Carolina Secretary of Human Resources. "Workfare is designed to break the cycle of poverty which tends to be passed from one generation to another," stated Kirk.

He said participation in the program in his state is left up to county government which can elect to make Workfare mandatory for "able bodied" individuals. They are required to work 50 hours a month for government or non-profit agencies in order to qualify for welfare benefits.

"This is a transitional program because during the remainder of the month, recipients receive job training designed to prepare them for permanent employment," said Kirk. Since the program was introduced in North Carolina a 1982, 7300 individuals have been transferred from the welfare rolls into full-time employment.

The federal government funds fifty percent of the program, with the state and county sharing the remaining cost.

Harrison County Sheriff Larkin Smith testified before the panel on prisons and criminal justice. He proposed ways to reduce the cost of housing inmates and recommended that more education opportunities and job training could reduce the number of repeat offenders.

Smith, who advocated a full-time parole board, with open public meetings, admitted that overcrowding is forcing criminals back on the street. Without job skills and an adequate educational background, the offenders are soon back on the street committing crimes, said Smith.

In Harrison County, Sheriff Smith has implemented a work program which saves the county money as well as providing job experience in such occupations as carpentry, auto mechanics, and food service. He also called for bail bonding reform and the establishment of restitution centers where convicted criminals could work to provide for victims of their crimes as well as their own families.

Bennett, Smith, and Kirk were among six individuals who testified before the Republican Commission on Mississippi's Future. The 56-member commission has conducted 11 hearings around the state to gather information to be incorporated into the GOP platform.

Commission chairman Charles Pickering, a Laurel attorney, said his group will work for the next two months drafting a platform to be submitted to the reconvened Republican State Convention on April 11 in Jackson.

Former Bay St. Louis seminary teacher named Divine Word College president

The board of trustees of Divine Word College named the Rev. Joseph Simon, SVD, as the sixth president of the school during a special meeting.

Simon is currently vice president for academic affairs and assistant professor of history of the college. He replaces the Rev. John Donaghey, SVD, president since 1981, whose term as head of the missionary college expires at the end of the school year.

After his selection as president, Simon commented: "I hope to continue the work of making this a unique seminary with its cross cultural emphasis. I also hope to continue the work of our society of supplying missionaries to work throughout the world."

Simon, 54, is a native of Louisiana. He studied at St. Augustine's Seminary in Bay St. Louis and took his first vows in the Society of the Divine Word in 1953. He was ordained a priest in 1961.

Simon has a degree in church history for Gregorian University in Rome. He taught three years at the seminary in Bay St. Louis before coming to Divine Word College in 1966.

He is a former member of the Epworth City Council and is chairman of the East Central Intergovernmental Association Business Growth, Inc., as well as chairman of the Mardi Gras will be in full swing on Sunday in the Waveland-Bay St. Louis area with the 21st parade of the Krewe of Nereids.

It is hard to realize Nereids has been parading for over 20 years now, and we can remember their first parade winding through the streets of Waveland.

The ladies of Nereids are still going strong and that is good for our communities.

The parade on Sunday will begin at 2 p.m. from Choctaw Plaza in Waveland proceed towards Bay St. Louis on US-90 to Katie's Kandy Shop, then reverse direction to Our Shopping Center in Waveland.

We are hoping there will be a large turnout of spectators for this important parade.

There sure was a large crowd viewing the parade last year.

We hope to see you at the parade.

Still to come the following weekend will be Diamondhead's Land and Sea parades, Pass Christian's parade, and the Krewe of Triton on Mardi Gras day in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The big football game of the 'Stars' of Bay High and Hancock North Central had to be canceled last Sunday because of the downpour.

It is our understanding the game is rescheduled after Mardi Gras on Sunday, March 15.

We have been reading with interest the stories about the Federal Bureau of Investigation investigating alleged kick-backs to members of the board of supervisors in other counties in Mississippi.

I myself witnessed some 35 years ago a salesman trying to give a supervisor a kick-back for purchasing a road grader.

I have never seen someone as frustrated and surprised as he was when the money was not accepted.

I was a part-time employee of Hubbard's Hardware when the store was located in Bay St. Louis and a high school student at the time. The late R.G. (Manny) Hubbard had just been elected to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors in old District Five and purchased his first piece of equipment.

The salesman called Mr. Hubbard to a corner of his store to talk to him. In a few minutes Mr. Hubbard called me and said, "Ellis, look at what he is trying to give me." He had in his hand a white envelope containing some very big bills.

The salesman tried to impress on Mr. Hubbard that he earned the money as his commission for purchasing the equipment.

The equipment salesman did not know what to do with the money when Mr. Hubbard refused to take it. Mr. Hubbard kept telling the salesman to deduct the amount from the sale to Hancock County.

It will be interesting to see what the FBI will come up with if they continue their investigations.

Hattiesburg resident remembers Brother Hilbert's friendship

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,

Last January the people of the Gulf Coast lost a valuable friend, artist and educator when Brother Hilbert Mooney died after a protracted illness.

Brother Hilbert touched many thousands of students through his many years as an educator at Saint Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis. He also built a following for his handcrafted pottery along the coast and in neighboring states.

I met him several years ago in his studio on the Saint Stanislaus campus. He generously loaned me two of his wheels for the summer and I began a slow process reviving my interests and skills in clay.

My wife and I were fortunate to have had his company and robust appetite for dinner on two occasions. Later, I was fortunate to fire a number of my revival pieces along with his in his kiln with the leaning chimney.

Before his death, Brother Hilbert's fame was such that Mississippi ETV's "Mississippi Roads" devoted a program segment to him, which first aired last fall.

That program will be shown again on Mississippi ETV February 24, at 7:30 p.m. Please let the people along the Gulf Coast know about it. Although brief, it is a tribute to the man and his work.

Sincerely,
Roger Brinegar

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

Where was the FBI when we needed it, years ago to crack the age-old pattern of corruption in the purchases of road materials and equipment by dozens of county supervisors across Mississippi?

Forget that I asked. The important thing is the FBI, with all its talents and techniques of sleuthing the past two years has been infiltrating that incredible political maze known as the county supervisor system of Mississippi, to ferret out crime in purchasing practices.

Last week the arrest of nine supervisors was the first public disclosure that a massive federal assault on crime at the creekbanks in Mississippi, in the office for more than a decade, was underway and many more arrests will be forthcoming.

This was the crackdown that would have taken place back in 1974 or 1975 if a U.S. Justice Department strike force then based in New Orleans was allowed to proceed with its broadscale investigation of corruption among county supervisors in this state.

Back then a powerful U.S. Senator named James O. Eastland from Mississippi who headed the Senate Judiciary Committee, was a close political ally of the courthouse crowd in this state. Eastland, it was learned back then, had the investigation of Mississippi supervisors stopped, and the strike force reassigned.

Later, the feds moved their target to Oklahoma which had the closest thing to Mississippi's loosely run system of county purchasing.

More than 200 county commissioners and 20 and 30 vendors in Oklahoma were indicted in 1981 for wrongdoing in the purchases of road materials and equipment in that state. The scandal rocked the state of Oklahoma as practically all the county officials were put out of office.

Now that the FBI has at last been turned loose in Mississippi, it may well find here the most fertile ground for home-grown corruption at the grass roots anywhere in America.

What the average Mississippian doesn't realize is that we have perhaps the most wide-ranging system of county government officials in the nation.

Mississippi supervisors have power to not only tax, but also appropriate and to spend money. Add to that the fact that they also serve as county road commissioners and you have an amazing combination of power in one office.

Besides millions of dollars of local tax money that flows through the hands of county supervisors, they also handle millions of dollars from the state as well as the federal government.

Yet, the state has never provided an adequate check on the honesty of the supervisors in the handling of public funds. Only the state auditor's office provides any oversight of how supervisors have spent the money, and the auditor has no criminal power.

Until Ray Mabius became state auditor three years ago, state audits of county governments ran four to five years behind, making it virtually impossible to catch ongoing corruption. (Mabius, the FBI said, gave valuable assistance to its investigation.)

The local district attorney, of course, has always been in a position to investigate and prosecute corruption by county supervisors, but in practically every county the DA and the supervisors have a cozy relationship. It is unthinkable any prosecution would happen.

It did happen, however, in Jackson County, where fiery young DA Mike Moore took on the supervisors' system four years ago, bringing criminal charges against four supervisors. When Moore had finished, three supervisors had been convicted, and one resigned to avoid prosecution.

Back in 1962, this writer in a series of articles for the Times-Picayune, documented widespread system of kickbacks on road machinery purchases by county supervisors, using records in a bankruptcy and a road equipment company.

The state legislature, reacting to the disclosure, created a special joint committee to make its own investigation. All that came out of the investigation was enactment of several new anti-kickback laws, but nobody was indicted or convicted.

Lawmakers proudly proclaimed, however, that they had plugged the holes of corruption with the new laws.

In 1973, this writer had disclosed a pattern of padding prices of metal culverts sold to counties by 35 percent in order to cover kickbacks and guarantee fat profits to vendors.

Again, a legislative committee conducted an investigation, some laws were passed requiring supervisors to buy culverts according to the state bid price.

Obviously the FBI sting operation proved that supervisors could get around the laws, one device being the "busted invoice," and old scheme whereby materials are paid for, and never delivered.

Not all county supervisors in Mississippi are crooks, I know. But it may be shocking to many Mississippians who will get caught in the FBI net.

In Oklahoma only six of the state's 77 counties were found to be clean.

Mississippi Reporting Service Legislative Update

Legislative session ended last week, with a Thursday deadline hanging over their heads in contrast to the leisurely pace at the Capitol in 1987 so far.

That exceeded the total number of floor votes in the previous five weeks of the session, which runs from January until April. Last week's deadline was for first floor action on non-money bills.

More than 300 bills died when the House chose to adjourn at 6:35 p.m. on Thursday, nearly six hours before deadline. The maneuver killed 117 measures, including a proposal to hold a state vote on replacing the 1890 constitution and a bill to establish renter and landlord rights.

Meanwhile, the Senate worked up until the Thursday midnight deadline, although 14 Senate bills were left unconsidered on the calendar when the midnight arrived. A Senate casualty was a bill forbidding judges from suspending any part of a DUI sentence.

Legislative deaths last week were as significant as deadline survivors, with some of the most publicized issues of 1987 hitting the dust.

Casualties of last week were: —a House effort to call a statewide vote on holding a constitutional convention to replace the state Constitution of 1890;

—a House-horse racing bill that outlined how to divide out pari-mutuel proceeds should voters in Tunica and Jackson counties vote to allow local option horse racing and pari-mutuel betting;

—a Senate proposal to allow Harrison County voters to cast ballots in favor of a jai alai arena with pari-mutuel betting;

a House proposal for a statewide lottery to pay for highway construction;

—a House bill setting up landlord and tenant rights laws and —a proposal to transform Mississippi's eight public universities to one system under a chancellor.

Among last week's survivors were Senate measures intended to reform civil lawsuits, an idea endorsed by the insurance industry and criticized by plaintiffs' attorneys.

The Senate voted to reduce the statute of limitations on civil lawsuits from six to three years and institute several liability.

Several liability holds lawsuit parties liable only for their portion of damages. Under the present joint liability law, any involved party could be held liable for the entire judgement.

Tort reform skeptics attempted to amend the several liability bill to specifically state that employers still could be held liable for actions of their employees, which failed 23-25.

The measures still face House action, where two tort reform proposals died under the deadline.

Other bills winning passage last week were:

—a House overhaul of state regulation of the insurance industry, including abolishing the three-member state Insurance Commission and shifting most of the authority to an elected insurance commissioner;

—a House bill to require residential child-care facilities to register with the State Department of Health and —a senate farm-assistance bill that would allow state funding to pay interest on loans for "emerging crop" farmers and provide optional mediation between farmers and lending agencies considering foreclosure. State bankers had opposed mandatory mediation.

There were more than the usual amount of bills last week since it was a "deadline" week. Action had to be taken on all bills that were not revenue bills by Thursday or the bills would die on the calendar. The bills that follow will now move to the other house for action.

This vote was on a motion to suspend the rules to consider HB 489.

Supporters of a Senate-passed bill calling for a statewide November vote on replacing the 1890 State Constitution failed by a 55-46 vote to move the proposal up so that it could be considered.

Phillips, Nay; Holston, Nay.

House HB 522 redraws the state's three Supreme Court Districts, also used for electing officials to the Public Service Commission and Highway Commission. With this bill, Winston, Neshoba and Attala counties move from the Central to Northern District. Calhoun and Claiborne go from the Central to Southern District. It passed 48-46.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Yea.

Amendment to HB 522 would have created a heavily black district by moving Jefferson, Coahoma, Quitman, Tallahatchie and Tunica from the Northern District and by moving Rankin, Scott, Newton and Lauderdale from the Central to the South. It failed 45-70.

Phillips, Nay; Holston, Nay.
HB 124 would allow residents of Jackson and Tunica counties to hold votes on whether to allow horse tracks with pari-mutuel betting. The measure passed 59-55.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Nay.
The next day HB 124 was voted on again. This vote released it for Senate action and passed by a wider victory margin of 67-45.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Nay.
HB 111A would prevent inmates from serving as radio dispatchers for sheriff's departments. It passed 64-32.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Yea.
HB 717 allows non-profit organizations to hold bingo games with cash prizes. The proposal passed 72-36.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Not Voting.

HB 461 would require all drivers to carry $50,000 in liability insurance on their vehicles. The measure passed 59-20.

Phillips, Nay; Holston, Yea.
An amendment to HCR 19 would have reorganized the state's eight universities into a university system directed by a chancellor. The measure failed 31-65.

Phillips, Nay; Holston, Nay.
HB 848 requires residential child-care facilities to register with the State Department of Health. It passed 75-40.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Nay.
HB 145 increase the compulsory attendance age to 16. The age is now 10. Under the measure, the maximum age would increase by two years each year until reaching 16, but districts could set the age at 16 immediately if they choose. The bill passed 110-5.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Yea.
HB 121, A companion bill to a measure allowing local option horse racing and pari-mutuel betting in Tunica and Jackson counties, failed to win the three-fifths passage margin required for a revenue bill. The 65-44 vote was one short of the requirement for passage.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Nay.

The House voted to adjourn at 6:35 p.m. deadline night, which killed 117 bills never considered on the floor, including a state referendum on replacing the state constitution, a bill setting out renter and landlord rights, reforms in damage lawsuits and a bill extending the state's immunity from damage lawsuits for another year. The House adjourned on a 58-57 vote.

Phillips, Yea; Holston, Nay.

SENATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS
SCR 534 failed to win a necessary two-thirds passage margin 27-19 to hold a statewide vote on a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize judges to deny bail to suspected felons who present a potential danger to society.

Gene Taylor, Nay; Martin Smith, Yea.

SB 2632 authorizes the State Department of Health to approve individual on-site wastewater disposal systems and to adopt regulations for approving sewage disposal methods. It passed 30-17.

Gene Taylor, Yea; Martin Smith, Nay.

SB 2519 declares liquor sellers are not liable for damages caused by their customers. The measure passed 37-10.

Gene Taylor, Yea; Martin Smith, Nay.

SCR 2352 would have authorized the warehousing of beer in any dry county. It failed 23-26.

Gene Taylor, Yea; Martin Smith, Nay.

SB 2992 allows student loans to be repaid by teaching in public schools. It passed 39-9.

Gene Taylor, Yea; Martin Smith, Nay.

SB 2232 would have authorized Harrison County residents to vote on whether to allow local gambling on a proposed jai alai arena. The measure failed 19-31.

Gene Taylor, Yea; Martin Smith, Nay.

SB 2267 reduced the statute of limitations on civil lawsuits from six years to three. The measure passed 41-7.

Gene Taylor, Yea; Martin Smith, Yea.

SB 2241 establishes liability, in which parties involved in lawsuits can only be held liable for their extent of the damages. This replaces joint liability, in which any involved party may be liable for the entire judgement amount. It passed 24-23.

Gene Taylor, Nay; Martin Smith, Nay.

An amendment to HB 521 would have specified that employees still share liability with employers in lawsuits against employers. Leaving employees solely liable for their actions, which tort reform opponents believed could be a liability to the newly passed liability bill, was amended to read: "The amendment shall not apply to any employee of the state." Gene Taylor, Nay; Martin Smith, Yea.

Navy to commission 6th guided missile cruiser

The U.S. Navy will commission its sixth Aegis guided missile cruiser Saturday, when USS MOBILE BAY (CG 53) joins the fleet just a few miles upriver from the Civil War battle site from which the ship draws its name. The ship was built in Pascagoula by Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton.

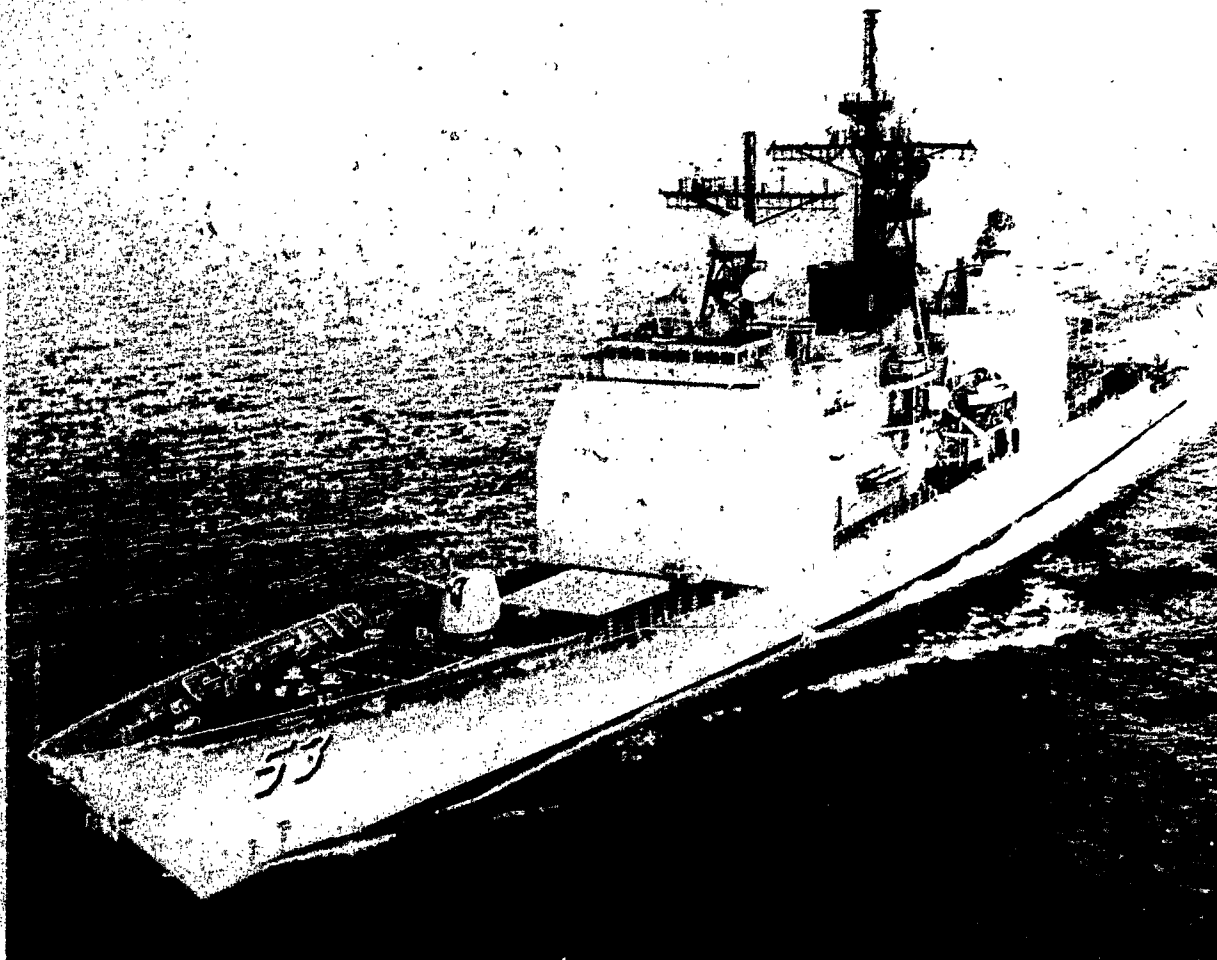

Rear Admiral Jeremiah A. Denton Jr., USN (Ret.), a Mobile native, will be principal speaker for the 11 a.m. ceremony at Berth Two of the Alabama State Docks in Mobile, Ala., during which USS MOBILE BAY will officially join the U.S. Atlantic Fleet. Captain F. Richard Whalen, USN, a native of Annandale, Va., will accept command of the 567-foot, 9,500-ton warship.

CG 53 is named in commemoration of the Civil War battle fought on August 5, 1864 between a Union Squadron commanded by Rear Admiral David Glasgow Farragut and Confederate forces under the command of Admiral Franklin Buchanan.

Spurred on by Farragut's immortal battle cry "Damn the torpedoes...full speed ahead!", the Union forces fought their way into heavily defended Mobile Bay. The defeat of the southern squadron the surrender of the ironclad CSS TENNESSEE, climaxed the battle.

Farragut's victory won for the Union naval forces control of the water approaches to Mobile and closed the last important port along the Gulf of Mexico available to the Confederacy. During its transit from Pascagoula to Mobile for commissioning, CG 53 paid tribute to the battle as it passed the battle site, adjacent to the historic Fort Morgan.

Other speakers for Saturday's ceremony will include: the Honorable Melvyn R. Paisley, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research, Engineering and Systems; Vice Admiral William H. Rowden, USN, Commander, Naval Sea Systems Command; Vice Admiral Joseph Metcalf III, USN, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations, Surface Warfare; Rear Admiral David M. Bennett, USN, Deputy

MOBILE BAY—Sixth in a series of advanced Aegis guided missile cruisers being built for the U.S. Navy by Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton in Pascagoula, Mobile Bay (CG 53) has completed predelivery at-sea testing in the Gulf of Mexico. The new warship will be commissioned into the U.S. Atlantic Fleet in Mobile Feb. 21. The ship will be homeported in Mayport, Fla. (Ingalls Shipbuilding photo)

Commander Naval Surface Forces, U.S. Atlantic Fleet, Rear Admiral Michael P. Kalleres, USN, Commander, Cruiser-Destroyer Group 12; and Jerry St. Pe, Senior Vice President of Litton and President of Ingalls Shipbuilding. The Rev. Ralph Weichmann of Springfield, Va., will deliver the invocation.

CG 53 is the sixth ship in a series of 13 TICONDEROGA (CG 47) Class Aegis guided missile cruisers being built for the U.S. Navy by Ingalls. Keel of the ship was laid down in June 1984. CG 53 was launched in August 1985, and delivered to the Navy in December 1986.

Aegis ships, such as USS MOBILE BAY, comprise the most important shipbuilding program in America today. CG 53 and other ships of the class will provide the primary protection for the Navy's battle forces well into the next century. Aegis ships are designed to counter all present and projected missile threats to the Navy's battle forces.

USS MOBILE BAY is equipped with the advanced, below-deck mounted MK 41 Vertical Launching System (VLS), a multiwarfare missile launching system capable of striking targets in the air, on the ocean surface, and on land. The cruiser is also equipped with the advanced Aegis Combat System, which includes the most capable shipboard air defense radar system in the world today.

Four gas turbine jet engines will power the ship to speeds in excess of 30 knots. CG 53 carries a crew of 29 officers and 360 crewmen.

Lead shipbuilder for five of the latest classes of Navy surface combatants, Ingalls has delivered the Navy's first five Aegis cruisers since 1983.

Following USS MOBILE BAY, Ingalls has seven additional Aegis cruisers in various stages of production, including ANTIETAM (CG 54) which will join the Fleet in June 1987. Additionally, the shipyard is building the Navy's new class of WASP LHD multipurpose amphibious assault ships, and is overhauling the multimission destroyer USS SPRUANCE (DD 963). Ingalls is also reactivating and modernizing the battleship WISCONSIN (BB 64), under a contract awarded in mid-1986.

New jobs for Mississippi through 'Project Upgrade'

The Mississippi Employment Security Commission is beginning a new program called "Project Upgrade" to create new jobs through the expansion of business and industry. This program is designed to benefit both the employers as well as the disadvantaged unemployed workers throughout the state.

The main thrust of this project will be to create new jobs in Mississippi by providing employers the opportunity to upgrade existing employees into higher positions within their organization. The Mississippi Employment Security Commission will then reimburse the employer 50 percent of the employees' wages during the training time required to gain these new skills.

Employers participating in this new program will be required to hire one JTPA eligible participant for an entry level position for every upgrade slot approved.

This program will provide an incentive to employers for hiring

JTPA eligibles along with providing current employees upgraded skills that could provide them with the opportunity for advancement within their organization. In addition "Project Upgrade" should encourage economic growth by supplementing employers' expenses involved during the training process.

Employers and applicants may obtain information concerning this program from their local employment service offices throughout the state.

Lady landowners organize soil conservation groups

Mississippi's lady landowners are uniting. In a program through the Soil Conservation Service, Mississippi is initiating the organization of lady landowner groups within the state.

The organization is a means of getting sound resource management systems applied to land owned and operated by ladies as well as that leased out by absentee lady landowners.

Since the organization in Mississippi is organized on a county basis, a prime goal is to inform its members of current agribusiness events taking place within the county. Likewise, the need for wise use of soil and water conservation practices on their land is stressed.

Because women as a group often control more land than men, a Ladies Landowners' League can be an effective means of getting their involvement and gaining the support of the farmers operating their land to install conservation practices.

It is a means to obtain technical information pertinent to sound agribusiness operation in an organized and comprehensive manner. Also, a way to become informed of current trends and technologies in the traditionally male-oriented agribusiness world.

Started in mid-1985 and under the direction of local Soil and Water Conservation Districts, fifteen counties in Mississippi are either active or are in the process of organizing.

Recognizing that the needs of this influential group have often gone unaddressed, the Ladies Landowners' League provides the medium for sound management decisions.

A typical lady landowners meeting might find such topics as rental arrangements, commodity marketing, financial management, taxes and land appraisal, wills and estates, drainage, weed control, and irrigation being addressed by guest speakers. Often, a realization of poor land management practices occurs, or in the reverse, a realization of the sacrifices and rewards of good renters.

All work and no play it isn't, however. Social orientation has its place. Luncheons and/or refreshments are often offered in conjunction with their meetings. Conservation tours are scheduled, as are workshops, field days, beautification campaigns, and award and community programs.

Ladies (landowners, operators, or farmers' wives), interested in becoming a member of their county's newest prestigious organization, may contact their local Soil and Water Conservation District for meeting information.

If interested in establishing an organization in a county not currently served by the Ladies Landowners' League, contact the local Soil and Water Conservation District or the USDA, Soil Conservation Service office in Kilm, 353-5226.

IRS tells how to get a faster tax refund

Last year Federal income tax refunds totalling over $225,000 and averaging $701 apiece, were sent to taxpayers in Mississippi, according to the Internal Revenue Service. Most of those taxpayers have by now received one of the 1986 tax forms packages mailed by the IRS.

For those taxpayers who expect a refund again this year, and hate to wait, the tax forms package contains something that will produce that refund sooner: a preaddressed peel-off label and a special pre-addressed envelope.

Use of the special label and envelope will speed up a tax refund, the IRS said, because they contain information that reduces IRS's sorting and processing time. In addition, because the label already has the taxpayer's name, address, and social security number printed on it, the chance of errors that could delay the refund check are greatly reduced.

If any of the information on the label is not correct, changes can be made right on the label.

In addition to the peel-off label and preaddressed envelope, the tax forms package contains other helpful items, such as important tax reminders, toll-free telephone numbers for tax information, and line-by-line instructions for filling out the tax forms.

The National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County is sponsoring a free workshop for teachers on remote sensing and the applications of satellite data.

The workshop, for secondary teachers of earth science, environmental science and social studies, will be Feb. 25 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in NSTL's Teacher Resource Center.

The session is designed to enhance science and social studies curricula and present an update on available materials in the area of remote sensing.

Scientists from NSTL and the University of Southern Mississippi will discuss the use of satellite information in the fields of meteorology, oceanography, archeology, cartography, earth resources, and data acquisition and processing.

According to Dianne Dewees, Teacher Resource Center coordinator, the daylong workshop will include lectures and demonstrations.

Instructors for the workshop are Chuck Hill, Tom Sever and Harold Moffett, NASA; Frank Beatty and Billy Tolar, U.S. Geological Survey; Andy Johnson and Paul LaVolette, Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity; and Dr. Don Williams, University of Southern Mississippi.

Enrollment in the workshop is limited and teachers must pre-register by Feb. 20. For more information, contact Dewees at (601) 688-3338.

renewal and the Catholic laypeople involved in the renewal.

We believe this sharing by Father Landry will be a real inspirational and eye-opening time for everyone there. Mass will be followed by a time of prayer for healing and other gifts as the Holy Spirit directs and guides.

Come join us for a very spiritual evening of praise, worship, and an uplifting evening of open sharing and an exciting time together as the gifts of the Holy Spirit are manifested on his people. The evening begins at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 22, 1987 at St. Paul's Church in Pass Christian Ms.

Mississippi Women In Municipal Government conducts leadership conference in Jackson

The newly formed organization, Mississippi Women in Municipal Government, conducted its first mid-winter luncheon and conference recently in Jackson.

The conference, entitled Women in Leadership, was held in conjunction with the mid-winter conference of the Mississippi Municipal Association.

The luncheon was presided over by the president of MS/WIMG, Marcia Weaver, councilman from Jackson. Following the luncheon a reading was presented by Marlana

Dow of Jackson State University.

The keynote speaker was the Honorable Alyce G. Clarke, state representative from Jackson, and her topic was "Politics of Teen Pregnancy." She discussed the high cost of teenage pregnancy and its many related problems, and several possible solutions.

She also encouraged the proposed comprehensive health education plan and the expansion of Medicaid in Mississippi to 100 percent of the federal poverty level in order to help reduce infant mortality and mental retardation.

A plaque was presented to Lula Gooley, councilman from Laurel, in recognition of her service as founding president of MS/WIMG.

Following the luncheon a leadership workshop was held with Jane Crater Hiatt, executive director of the Jackson/Hinds Arts Alliance, as the facilitator. The group was divided into three smaller groups, and presented with hypothetical situations.

What eventuated was the frequent result when too much power is exercised by an oppressive group when power has become an end unto itself - a joining of lesser forces to rid themselves of the oppressors.

The four interdependent dimensions of an organization - mission, power, structure and resources - called the Diamond Model, were then explained and it was shown how they affected one another.

Leadership as a social ethical practice emerges when persons in communities, grounded in hope, are grasped by inauthentic situations and courageously act in concert with followers to make those situations authentic.

At the conclusion of the workshop a short business meeting of the organization was conducted. There were reports from various officers, and some changes in the by-laws were presented and voted upon.

All proposals were approved unanimously. A resolution was presented concerning the support for the comprehensive health education and Medicaid expansion in Mississippi. With one amendment it was approved by the general body.

The Southern District presented a report which was the filling of an unexpired term on the board by Mayor Emma Jean Wilkerson of Leakesville.

The general body approved the new logo by Chester Delacruz of Biloxi and presented by the logo committee under the direction of Margaret Sherry, publicity director.

It was also reported that the program for the mid-summer meeting to be held in Biloxi is now being planned and prospective speakers were mentioned. The meeting was then adjourned.

Legal secretaries plan tri-chapter meeting

Sue Allmon, PLS, of Hattiesburg, Second Vice President of the Mississippi Association of Legal Secretaries (MALS), was guest speaker for the Feb. 12 dinner meeting of Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association (LSA). She discussed benefits of membership in the association, emphasizing educational programs.

A Tri-Chapter Meeting of Harrison-Hancock Counties LSA, Biloxi-Ocean Springs LSA, and

Jackson County LSA will be held Feb. 19, 6:30 p.m., at the Biloxi Hilton. Reservations for the dinner meeting may be made by contacting Billie Ruddick, PLS, 863-6101, during normal working hours.

The chapter's annual Bosses' Appreciation Night will be held March 14, beginning at 6 p.m., at the American Legion on Courthouse Road, Gulfport. "We the People..." is the theme, in celebration of the 200th year of the United States Constitution.

Special recognition was given Gini Myers, PLS, who seeks election to the position of Fourth Vice President for the National Association of Legal Secretaries (NALS). Myers currently serves as NALS Executive Secretary and MALS advisor.

President Susan Bailey initiated new member Sandy Whitaker, employed with the Gulfport law firm of Owen & Galloway.

Chairman Roberta Burleson recognized Billie Ruddick, PLS, and Glenda Downs as the chapter's first and second-place winners of the Eula Mae Jett Scholarship Award.

The March 5 dinner meeting of Harrison-Hancock Counties LSA will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Beachfront Holiday Inn. Persons employed in law offices or performing work of a legal nature are encouraged to attend. Reservations may be made by contacting Marea Cox, 863-2762.

LAP QUILTING

"Lap Quilting with Georgia Bonesteel" begins its fourth season on Mississippi ETV at 2:30 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 21.

In the series, Bonesteel takes the novice and expert quilter through step-by-step instruction beginning with fabric selection, pattern design, patchwork construction and small-item construction. Projects range from appliqued throws and wall hangings to full quilts.

Bonesteel's love for quilting and sewing began in New Orleans in the '70s when she began quilting silk handbags at her shop in the French Quarter. After she and her family relocated to North Carolina, she continued quilting by teaching at the local technical college near her home.

USM program features books for children

Children's books will be the focus of a panel of experts and an exhibit of rare and original manuscripts during February as the McCain Library and Archives at the University of Southern Mississippi presents "Children's Literature: Past and Present."

A panel discussion will be Feb. 15 at 2 p.m. in room 200 of the McCain facility in conjunction with an extensive exhibit of published books, original manuscripts, illustrations and other archival materials held in the USM de Grummond Children's Literature Research Collection.

"Our basic philosophy is to make our collections more accessible to the people in south Mississippi - including Jackson, Hattiesburg and the Gulf Coast areas," said Delores B. Jones, curator of the collection. "We hope the panel discussion and the exhibit will attract people to the campus for the Sunday afternoon program who are not able to come for longer events."

The panel will discuss, 'Collecting Children's Books: Three Perspectives,' and will feature a trio of experts - including Brian Alderson, John Kelly and Dorothy Tharpe.

Alderson, children's book editor of the "London Times," is a leading international authority on children's literature. He and his wife, Valerie, are proprietors of the Five Owls Bookshop in North Yorkshire, England.

USM Bibliographer John Kelly is a former curator of the de Grummond collection. He will speak on the field of antiquarian children's books.

Tharpe is a special friend and contributor to the collection. She will talk about her private collection, 'The Pennywise Collection of Children's Books,' which contains some 5,000 volumes.

The exhibit accompanying the panel discussion will be open to the public February 15 through March 25 from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays in room 405 of the McCain Library and Archives. The exhibit features a sampling of materials housed in the de Grummond Collection, which now holds some 27,000 volumes of children's materials.

Lena Y. de Grummond, author of several children's books, founded the collection in 1966. She assembled materials which were sent by contributors from around the globe, and used them to teach her students in USM's School of Library Service. Since then, more than 1,100 people have donated books and original materials.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS—Delores Jones, curator of the Lena Y. de Grummond Collection of Children's Literature at the University of Southern Mississippi, holds the second American issue of the first edition of Lewis Carroll's "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland."

The 1866 publication is among some 200 books and other children's materials displayed in Room 405 of USM's McCain Library and Archives. The exhibit will be open to the public Feb. 15 through March 25 in Room 204. Library hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Educators visit Naval Oceanographic office at NSTL

A Mississippi State delegation of senior educators visited the Naval Oceanographic Office at the National Space Technology Laboratories in early February. They sought to familiarize themselves with, and to explore the possibilities of, mutually beneficial interaction between the academic community and the Navy scientific facility at NSTL.

The group, which included Mr. Bryce Griffiths (president of the board of trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning), Dr. Donald W. Zacharias (president of MSU), Dr. Ralph Powe (vice-president of research for MSU), and Dr. Roy A. Crochet (director of MSU Research Center at NSTL), is responsible for developing and educating students to become rewarding and productive citizens of both their state and their country.

The basic mission of the Naval Oceanographic Office is "excellence in world ocean survey and analysis to satisfy the operational needs of the U.S. Navy."

While these two goals appear to be quite different, they both involve the use of high technology, and there are numerous areas of overlapping interest. The Naval Oceanographic Office is dedicated to the transfer of technology that it has developed for its own purposes to the public sector in accordance with the Stevenson Wylder Act.

Both groups, the educators and the Office, expect this orientation visit to lead to mutually beneficial involvement and exchange of expertise.

Coast Episcopal sets benefit antique show

The Parents-Teachers Organization at Coast Episcopal Schools and Town and Country Antique Shows of Alexandria, Va., will jointly sponsor the schools' second annual benefit antique show Friday, March 6, through Sunday, March 8, at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

The antique show will be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and Sunday from 11 to 6 p.m.

Admission of $3.50 per person is good for all three days.

Kicking off the fund raiser will be a luncheon and lecture at 11:30 a.m. on Friday, March 6 at the Broadwater Beach Hotel, Crown Room. Luncheon chairman Mrs. Dan (Lucille) Mortimer of Bay St. Louis has arranged a menu to include the Broadwater's specialty, "Crepes Bilozi."

"Decorating with Antique Art" will be the lecture topic by Charles Puckett of Greenville, Texas. Puckett's involvement with antiquarian prints and art spans more than 25 years. He specializes in watercolors and important 17th through 19th century original prints and maps with emphasis on Natural History, Botany and Americana.

Puckett has selected an antique print for the door prize. Donation for this benefit luncheon is $12.

For a relaxing, fun-filled change of pace, the PTO is planning a cocktail buffet party for Saturday, March 7 which will feature non-stop music and entertainment, food and antique browsing at the Coliseum's Exhibition Room A.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the evening's entertainment will feature Mary Anna Underwood playing the concert grand piano and the Consortium Musicum, a Gulf Coast renaissance performing group.

Dressed in period costumes, the Consortium plays such antiquated instruments as harpsichord, recorder and double reed crumhorns. The group also sings madrigals and recreates renaissance dances.

The party will benefit Coast Episcopal Schools with the $20 donation for tickets being tax deductible, according to law, as a charitable expense.

Reservations may be made for both the benefit luncheon and party by calling the ticket chairman Susan Short (601) 452-9785 or Jerry Coleman (601) 574-3196.

"Town and Country Antiques has assembled a varied group of dealers from all over the Eastern U.S.," remarked Antique Show chairman Mrs. James (Patty) Hourin.

Joining exhibitors from last year's successful show, will be dealers in Oriental rugs, oil paintings of the 19th and early 20th century, Victorian era disktop items, including silver-plated sewing pieces, Chinese porcelain, 18th and mid-19th century English and American formal furniture as well as antique silver and linens.

A diversified selection of country furniture and accessories, pottery and porcelains, glass and silver, clocks, prints, lace, jewelry and a host of other antiques will also be displayed for sale in individual room settings. Presented in cozy, comfortable environment, with food available to purchase, this antique show invites leisurely browsing and interesting conversation with the dealers. The Winter Antique Show and Sale is truly, as one of last year's dealers described, a quality show for the Coastal area.

"An added feature," relayed publicity chairman, Mrs. Jerry (Aline) Coleman of Keesler AFB, "will be verbal appraisal of your family heirlooms and treasures on Saturday and Sunday from 1-3 p.m."

Town and Country will make available various experts to appraise any item brought in for a $3 donation per item. All proceeds from the Heirloom Discovery will benefit Coast Episcopal School. An admission ticket to the show is necessary for participation.

"The monies raised," stated PTO president Mrs. Gary (Lynda) Gilmore of Bay St. Louis, "will enable the PTO to continue their projects for the Coast Episcopal School System. A private, non-profit institution, Coast Episcopal Schools, Inc., is dedicated to academic excellence for Gulf Coast students, preschool through 12th grade."

For information call Mrs. James Hourin at (601) 255-1203 or write 668 Hale Ct., Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

BENEFIT ANTIQUE SHOW—Coast Episcopal Schools Antique Show Chairman Patricia Hourin, left, and James Hourin, both of Diamondhead, display some of the family treasures they plan to have verbally appraised at the Gulf Coast Winter Antique Show and Sale, March 7 and 8. During the show, co-sponsored by the Coast Episcopal Parents-Teachers Organization and Town and Country Antique Shows of Alexandria, Va., various experts will provide verbal appraisals from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. for a $3 donation, with all proceeds benefitting the schools. Mabus announces for governor

State Auditor Ray Mabus, pledging a campaign "focused on Mississippi's future and not the past," Monday became the first Democrat to officially announce his candidacy for governor.

"It is time we matched government's performance with Mississippi's promise. It is time we matched talk with action. It is time to get government away from the insiders and give government back to the people," Mabus said in his announcement address to a crowd of supporters.

Citing improved education and economic development as his two top priorities, Mabus said his campaign would "explore new possibilities rather than simply rehashing old problems." The Choctaw County native said he would run on his record as state auditor of making government at all levels more accountable financially and of battling corruption.

In the area of education, Mabus said teachers' salaries should be raised to the Southeastern average, as was promised in the 1982 Education Reform Act, which Mabus helped draft.

Mabus also called for a statewide program to battle adult illiteracy and a restoration of adequate funding for the state's universities and junior colleges.

"We've got to make sure that the quality of education does not depend on where you are born or where you go to school in Mississippi," Mabus said.

While calling education a key to economic development, Mabus said government must also encourage a climate for the creation of "jobs at which people can make a decent living, so the students we educate can work and live here in their home state. As governor, I'll do that."

Among those economic development areas needing improvement, Mabus cited the need for capital to help new businesses, encouraging "homegrown business," a coordinated statewide economic development plan that includes university participation and a better effort at promoting Mississippi "to this country and the world."

A graduate of Ackerman public schools, Mabus earned his bachelors degree at the University of Mississippi, a masters from Johns Hopkins University and a law degree from Harvard Law School. A veteran of the U.S. Navy, Mabus served as legal counsel to a U.S. House Agriculture subcommittee and to former Gov. William Winter before winning the auditor's post in 1983, his first try for public office.

Married to the former Julie Hines of Jackson, Mabus also continues to manage a family tree farming business in Choctaw County.

On the national level, Guice serves as co-chairman of the Law Office Management and Economic Committee and the Commercial Practice and Procedures Committee.

law and office management.

He has authored various articles in the area of commercial law.

Hawks nip Rocks, 49-47 in district thriller

What a game!

Tuesday night's District 4A matchup between tournament host St. Stanislaus and Hancock North Central provided an exciting evening of basketball for area basketball fans.

At the conclusion of four quarters of fierce play, the HNC Hawks defeated the St. Stanislaus Rockchaws 49-47.

The inside play of HNC's Byron Washington and the outside shooting of Sherwin Ladner and Craig Ladner provided the spark which lifted the Hawks over the Rocks, especially in the final two minutes of the game.

After trailing the entire third quarter, SSC regained the lead 37-35 on a nice jump shot from the corner by forward Louis Schruoff.

The Hawks countered with good inside passing, setting up Washington and Smith for fourth quarter layups. Ladner came alive from the corner with his hot shooting as the Hawks took the lead 45-42.

SSC had no intention of quitting. Ya' Sin Shabazz accounted for several steals and fast breaks. His outside shooting and driving layups provided most of the needed SSC scoring punch in the final minutes.

Louis Schruoff's 25-footer from the corner was good, and with two minutes to go the Rocks pulled to within one point of the Hawks.

HNC Coach Dennis Peterson called a strategic time out to set his offensive and defensive alignment, while on the other bench SSC Coach Chuch Genin was instructing his squad on how to attack the Hawk defense.

The last minute of the game seemed like an hour for anxious fans. The Hawks could never increase their lead more than two points, and when Josh Bowles was fouled with less than a minute to play, it looked like the Rocks would tie the game.

Bowles' missed free throws seemed to put the Hawks in a secure position, but a traveling call gave the ball back to the Rocks. Shabazz was fouled on his shot and sank both his free throws, giving the Rocks new life.

But HNC's Ladner wasted no time in countering with a driving layup which put the Hawks on top to stay.

The Rocks had several chances to tie the game in the last 26 seconds. Bowles was fouled taking a shot and stepped up to the free throw line for two crucial shots. The SSC senior guard rimmed the bucket on the first one, and the second one bounced high in the air. No one could emerge with the ball and as time expired Louis Schruoff threw up a desperation turn-around shot from the wing.

The ball fell short of the goal and HNC preserved a hard-fought 49-47 victory.

Thursday night, the Hawks meet No. 1 seed George County in the district finals. In the preliminary game Tuesday night, George County humiliated d'Iberville 80-42 behind the spectacular all-around play of Kelvin Lawrence.

The HNC girls and George County girls played to a 53-53 tie at the end of regulation of their contest. But solid inside play of the Hawks made the difference as Hancock pulled away to a 60-53 overtime victory.

Preceding the boys' finals on Thursday, the HNC girls and d'Iberville girls will meet in the district finals.

The girls' finals begin at 6:30, followed by the boys' finals at 8 p.m.

CEHS PLAYER Chris Riggs (12) goes up for two in Friday's game against Calvary Christian Academy of New Orleans.

CEHS girls basketball team advances to conference finals

Calvary Christian Academy of New Orleans visited the Coast Episcopal Raiders Friday for a boys and girls basketball game. The boys lost 22-12, suffering through a cold shooting performance; while the girls completed a 4-0 conference schedule, beating the visiting girls by 22-16.

That win put the girls into the championship game of conference tournament in New Orleans to be played Feb. 27 at PARD Gymnasium.

The boys suffered their worst shooting performance of the season, unable to convert a single basket in the third quarter. Chris Riggs turned in an excellent defensive performance and contributed four points offensively. Keith Ott added six points and Brandon Smith two points.

The Lady Raiders completed their first conference championship season beating Calvary 22-16 with everyone getting the opportunity to play. The Raiders' inside game and fast break were too much for a slower Calvary team that had a valiant losing effort.

Katherine Smith and Leah Salisbury shared high point honors with eight points each, followed by Melissa Catron with four points and Kristin Catron with two points.

The boys will end their regular season at home against Life

Academy of New Orleans Friday in the Long Beach Junior High Gym on Cleveland Street at 2:15 p.m.

SSC Junior Varsity finishes season 14-1

Under the guidance of Coach Jerry Spell, the St. Stanislaus Junior Varsity Basketball Team finished their season with an impressive 14-1 record.

Included in their season were victories over George County, Bay High, Hancock North Central and St. Martin.

"Team play was our strong point. The players worked as a unit with an outstanding unselfish attitude. Defense was our key to success. Our opponents scored less than 30 points a game," said coach Spell.

The Junior Varsity Rockchaws came alive offensively during the later part of the season. In season-ending victories against Bay High and St. John, the Rocks scored 61 and 68 points, respectively.

"All of our players will be competing for positions on next year's team. Shane Sigsworth, Bert Dean and David Bast will push for an inside position. Jerry Packrell, Scott Heitzmann and Francisco Colon will be working for the guard position. With the returning varsity members and the upcoming sophomores, the competition will be fierce," added Coach Spell.

When asked about the reasons the junior varsity enjoyed such a good year Spell commented, "We believe our success was a direct result of team play, organization and discipline. The players responded to these demands and the result was a near-perfect season."

This year ranks among the best in the career of Coach Spell. While at Bay High, he had a 13-0 junior varsity squad in 1980-81.

Several talented teams played the Rockchaws throughout the season. George County's only loss was to the Rockchaws. St. Martin was a big team, with plenty of depth. Hancock North Central provided two close games for the Rocks.

From early during the season there were indications that the Rocks would have a good year.

"I coached these players in junior high and saw that they had the potential to excel. They had the positive attitude and dedication to be successful," the coach said.

Also included in Coach Spell's duties are assisting Head Coach

Chuck Genin on the varsity squad. This week, the St. Stanislaus varsity meets Hancock North Central in an important district game.

Following basketball season, Coach Spell will join head baseball Coach Rod Herring to lead the Rocks in what promises to be an exciting year in baseball.

The results of all three Rockchaw basketball teams show good leadership and organization among the coaching staff. Presently the varsity is 15-3, and at one stretch had won nine out of ten games. This year the Rocks will enjoy a winning season for the first time in the last four years.

The Junior Varsity posted a 14-1 record. On the Ninth Grade level, the Rockchaws of Coach Rod Herring finished their season with a 14-2 slate, with their only two losses coming at the hands of Stone County. The freshman Rocks had beaten the Tomcats early in the season.

Volunteers provide first aid training

Physical education students at Bay St. Louis schools have been offered something a little different from their usual exercises and sports through cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) classes taught by a volunteer instructor.

Mary Beatrice Gallegos, a former nurse, has been providing training to Bay Junior High and Senior High students each year since 1978.

Gallegos, who started her nursing career with seven years at St. Joseph Hospital in Houston, Texas, and gained another nine years experience at Baptist Hospital in New Orleans, La., has been providing her services to the two schools since 1978.

The training for the students lasts one to two months. In addition to CPR and basic first aid, students learn to take blood pressures and temperatures and about the importance of first aid taping in athletics.

Gallegos has also provided training for Hancock North Central, Alcan Cable, Port Bienville Industrial Park, National Guard, Girl Scouts and Red Cross volunteers.

The students at the Bay Schools are not the only ones who have received special training.

The Bay St. Louis coaching staff was recently provided with extra training on care and prevention of athletic injuries through another volunteer, Dr. Tomas Flores.

Flores gave the coaches a three-hour class on how to check ankle injuries, caring for those injuries and using the correct support equipment.

The doctor also used x-rays of various injuries that might be sustained in sports to show the coaches the types of problems they may encounter.

In addition, Flores showed the coaches equipment that the schools might purchase to decrease the incidence of common athletic injuries.

Gallegos, a former nurse, has been volunteering up to two months of her time each year to teach students basic first aid and CPR. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Marine Center receives grant

HATTIESBURG—A scientist from the University of Southern Mississippi's NASA-based Center for Marine Science has been awarded a $14,000 grant to coordinate a study of marine samples taken from the Mediterranean Sea.

Dr. Donald Redalje, a research scientist and faculty member at the USM center, received the $14,021 grant from the Naval Ocean and Research Development Activity (NORDA).

A specialist in phytoplankton organisms (minute floating aquatic plants), Redalje said the funds will be used to support the continuing research efforts of USM graduate student Dan Gustafson.

Redalje said the funds will cover transportation expenses, supplies and support for Gustafson as he continues his research on the USM campus and at the USM marine facility, located at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories near Picayune.

YOUTH PLANT TREES—Waveland Elementary School students, from left, Carolyn Lebow, Megan Jackson, Rachel Spack and Steven Cooksey, get first-hand experience in planting trees at the school in a tree-planting program last week sponsored by the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District, Mississippi Forestry Commission and Hancock County Extension Service.

Bay High Student Council to begin program against drinking and driving

The Bay Senior High Student Council will begin a program against drinking and driving—Addicted to Life—Feb. 23 with a powerful film, Amber Lights.

The council will show the film, rented from Motivational Media Assemblies at 2 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

The Student Council encourages all members of the community to view the film.

As a part of the program against drinking and driving, each class will be sponsoring an activity to help inform the public of the consequences of drinking and driving.

The Freshman Class is giving contracts-for-life; the Sophomore Class is making a calendar featuring newspaper clippings on drinking and drug related accidents; the Junior Class is contacting Channel 13-WLOX News to obtain press coverage on the Student Council's activities for the Addicted-to-Life Week; and the Senior Class is asking businesses in the community to place messages about the program on their billboards.

The Student Council has asked the mayors of Waveland and Bay St. Louis to declare the week of Feb. 23-27 as Addicted-to-Life Week. Posters about the program will be placed at Bay Junior High, Bay Senior High, Pearl River Junior College and businesses in the community.

Bay Senior High can win up to $20,000 in scholarships for participating in this program sponsored by Reader's Digest magazine. The student body invites everyone to the Feb. 23 assembly.

Don't drink and drive!

PAUL MINNAERT

Kappa Delta new initiate

Helen Nicole Loiacano of Bay St. Louis has been initiated into Kappa Delta sorority at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Loiacano, Loiacano is a freshman majoring in recreational therapy. She is a graduate of Bay Senior High School.

Students raise funds for disease research

Coast Episcopal Elementary School students recently participated in the St. Jude Children's Hospital Math-a-Thon and contributed $1,126.55 to St. Jude's for research in children's diseases.

The students earned money by asking their parents and friends to pledge a specific amount of money for every math problem they worked correctly.

The high-earning students were: first place, Marc Mortimer, second grade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mortimer of Bay St. Louis; second place, Maria Koskan, first grade, daughter of Drs. Allen and Irene Koskan of Gulfport; third place, Whitney Eastman, fifth grade, daughter of Mrs. Kathleen Theriot of Pass Christian and Mr. John Eastman of Metairie; fourth place, Amanda Vaughn, second grade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vaughn of Long Beach; fifth place, Sarah Gholson, second grade, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Gholson of Long Beach; and sixth place, Dave DeBlanc, second grade, son of Mrs. Betty Vega of Bay St. Louis and Mr. David DeBlanc of Waveland.

Coast Episcopal is extremely proud of all of its students who participated in such a worthwhile effort.

David Bourgeois is Stanislaus Star Student

St. Stanislaus High School senior David Bourgeois has been named as the school's Star Student by the Mississippi Economic Council's Student Teacher Achievement Recognition Program. The selection was based on the student's high scholastic average for the first semester and his score on the American College Test.

Bourgeois selected Mrs. Eileen Engel as the Star Teacher because in Bourgeois' opinion she had made greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement.

Bourgeois, the son of Mrs. Marcia Engelman of Bay St. Louis and Mike Bourgeois of Maplewood, N.J., is presently in his fifth year at St. Stanislaus. He is a member of the National Honor Society and the French Honor Society; and he is captain of the Math and Science Team. He recently finished first in the state in mathematics at the State Math and Science Tournament.

He is a member of the President's Honor Roll with a perfect 4.0 average; and he is a member of the varsity tennis team. Bourgeois plans to study engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Engel has been teaching for 20 years, and she is presently teaching chemistry and computer science at St. Stanislaus. She earned her bachelor's degree at Southeastern Louisiana University and her master's degree at the University of Southern Mississippi.

She has received the University of California Berkley Scholarship Award for a Chemistry Teacher. She has been previously named Star Teacher in 1976 and 1977.

The students were selected based on character, leadership potential, and scholastic achievement.

New scholarship announced

Students in need of supplemental financial aid for college are urged to write for a free copy of "How to Play Grantsmanship," distributed by The Scholarship Bank.

According to the director of this nationwide non-profit foundation, over half a billion dollars is available to high school and college students, and in many cases can cover up to 25 percent of a student's academic year expenses.

These funds are contributed by corporations, trade, civic and non-profit foundations and are normally awarded on non-traditional basis such as academic merit, anticipated college major, geographic preferences, and even on the student's ability to consider a special research project or entering a contest.

The Scholarship Bank works with financial aids offices in high schools and colleges around the country to distribute information on the over 5,000 different programs in its computer bank. Each student receives a personalized printout based on his or her individual needs.

Each scholarship has a value of at least $1,000, and many are renewable yearly.

According to the director, graduate level grants with awards in excess of $25,000 are also available.

High school and college students should send a stamped, business-sized self-addressed envelope to The Scholarship Bank, 4626 N. Grand, Covina, CA 91724.

Jennifer Cotie to compete in oratorical finals

Jennifer Cotie of Bay St. Louis will compete in the finals of the 50th annual American Legion National High School Oratorical contest Feb. 21 in the War Memorial Building in Jackson.

Earlier this month, Miss Cotie won the Ninth District oratorical contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cotie of Waveland and a senior at Bay Senior High School.

Miss Cotie represents the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post 77 in Waveland.

Contestants from all areas of Mississippi will compete for the state title.

The winning boy or girl will advance to the National Regional competition in Baton Rouge, with the possibility of going on to the National Sectional in Little Rock, Ark. and National Finals in Lee's Summit, Mo.

A total of $109,000 in college scholarships will be divided among the contestants, with the National Oratorical Champion winning a $16,000 award and the runner-up getting $14,000.

Each contestant must present a prepared oration on some phase of the United States Constitution giving emphasis to the attendant duties and obligations of a citizen to his government.

The prepared oration must not take less than eight nor more than 10 minutes for delivery.

Each contestant must also give a 3-5 minute extemporaneous discourse on a Constitutional topic which will be supplied at the time of the contest.

The contestants here will have already been victorious in local and district competitions held earlier this year.

Began in 1938, the National High School Oratorical Contest has grown to an annual participation of some 30,000 students representing 53 departments of the American Legion. Since its inception, students have won more than $1 million in college scholarships in local, district, state, regional, national sectional and national finals competition.

Jackson 'Ole Miss Night' scheduled

High school and junior college students and their parents from across southwest Mississippi are invited to attend a special "Ole Miss Night" slated Tuesday, Feb. 24, in Jackson.

The New Orleans Cafe, just east of Northpark Mall on County Line Road, will be the "setting" for "Ole Miss and All That Jazz" — a program featuring light refreshments, jazz entertainment and information of interest to prospective Ole Miss students and their families. University Chancellor Gerald Turner will be guest speaker.

The program begins at 5 p.m. Participants are invited to meet with academic deans and other University officials from 6:15-7 p.m. A continuous slide show depicting student life at Ole Miss will run throughout the evening.

For more information, contact Ole Miss Regional Admissions Counselor Debi Martinson Jones at

(601) 982-0869. Ole Miss Night in Jackson is sponsored by the University's Office of Pre-Admissions.

Headstart Mardi

Gras parade

Bay-Waveland Headstart will have a Mardi Gras parade, Tuesday, Feb. 24 at 12:30 p.m. The parade will begin at the Headstart Center on Necaise Avenue, travel Necaise to Bookter and return Necaise to the center.

The king and queen of the festivities are King Douglas Jarrell and Queen Christina Jeanfreau.

The children will be costumed and throwing beads, etc.

The public is invited to view the Mardi Gras celebration.

Grant funds to be used to buy science fair trophies

A $1,300 grant from the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium will fund the purchase of trophies to be awarded as prizes during the Region VI Science and Engineering Fair April 3 in Biloxi.

Lawrence J. Bellipanni, assistant professor of science education at the University of Southern Mississippi, will direct the fair—which is sponsored by USM, the consortium and the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity.

The fair will be held in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum. Winners will proceed to the state fair in Biloxi April 11 and the international fair in San Juan, Puerto Rico, to be held May 10-16.

4-H News

Hancock 4-H'ers

learn decision making

February is Livestock Show month for 4-H. It gives 4-H'ers an opportunity to show off their project work and be rewarded for their efforts.

4-H'ers showing beef, sheep and swine they have selected and managed, can win ribbons and premium money. The members who do a better job with their project will obviously win higher place ribbons and more money. This is their incentive to do a good job of managing their project.

Decision making is a skill many youths need more practice at in order to make better decisions in their adult life. Through 4-H judging contests 4-H'ers learn how to make informed decisions and comparisons and to back up their decision by telling the judge why they made their decisions.

Thirty-five members participated in the county livestock judging contests, five in district contest and eight in state judging at the Dixie National Livestock Show.

If you or someone you know would like to practice your decision making in livestock, poultry, horticulture, clothing or any of the other 10 judging contests or if you are an adult and would like to learn how you can help, contact the County Extension Office at 467-5456.

GIVING SMOKEY A HAND—Billy Lamb, Nathan Andrews and Nathan Gulce of Coast Episcopal Elementary School give Smokey the Bear a hand planting trees at the school.

Anti-smoking health science exhibit awards to be presented

The Mississippi Council for a Tobacco-Free Society will present certificates of merit to one student at each Mississippi Private School Education Association District Science Fair and at each Mississippi Regional State Science and Engineering Fair for excellence in anti-smoking health science exhibits and/or projects.

Additionally, a special plaque will be presented to one winner at the MSEA and MPSEA State Science Fairs for outstanding health science exhibits or projects.

The awards are being offered as part of the Council's major initiative toward a "Smoke-Free Young America by the Year 2000." Projects by students should focus on anti-smoking education and awareness of the health hazards of smoking.

For free reference material or more information concerning the awards, contact Council member voluntary health agencies: American Cancer Society, Mississippi Division (362-5974); the American Heart Association, Mississippi Affiliate (981-4721) and/or the Mississippi Lung Association (362-5453).

WHERE DOES IT HURT?

Ouch! Ooow! Yipes! People suffer every day from pain and other health problems. Some seek help and are told they must learn to live with it. Others sit back and hope the pain will go away. Since 1895, tens of millions of people with health problems have turned to chiropractic. Did you know that chiropractic has helped headaches, backaches, tension, dizziness, allergies, respiratory problems, neuritis, bursitis, sciatica, and even digestive problems? If you have a health problem and nothing else has seemed to help, don't suffer needlessly. Find out if chiropractic can help you. CALL TODAY! Most insurance accepted.

LISTED BELOW ARE THIS WEEK'S SPECIALS AT THE NEW DELCHAMPS.

You guessed it. Nothing. The New Delchamps doesn't have weekly specials. Instead, we have Everyday Minimum Pricing. Pricing that's absolutely lower on every item. Every day.

You see, in the long run, weekly specials don't really save you money. Because when a supermarket has specials, they have to keep the prices higher on everything that's not a special. So the money you thought you saved on the weekly special is lost on everything else.

The New Delchamps has eliminated these specials to bring you

EVERYDAY MINIMUM PRICING

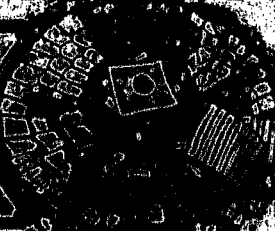

ABSOLUTELY LOWER PRICING! S.M.

And when you see what you'll save on your total food bill, you'll be glad to see your last special.
